

For Those Who Use Email:

Over the past year, our Institute for Learning in Retirement at Albertus Magnus College has moved aggressively into the digital age to better serve our members. Our new website, located at www.ilralbertus.org, allows all of us to get the latest information on course offerings, upcoming events and trips, see images from past events, sign up for courses, learn how to join and how we're organized. Of course we will continue to mail our spring and fall catalogues and other information to our members. If you have suggestions for upgrading our web pages, go to the "Contact Us" tab on our website and email your suggestions for making our site more useful or user friendly.

We have also procured the services of Constant Contact, a service that allows us to notify you by e-mail whenever the need arises during the year. These messages can be sent to all members at once or to a smaller targeted group, such as the members enrolled in a specific course or those signed up for a particular trip. Several times this fall, we used constant contact to notify members of room changes and other last-minute modifications to specific programs. Again, if you have suggestions for upgrading our constant contact e-mails, go to the "Contact Us" tab on our website and e-mail your suggestions for making our emails more useful or user-friendly.

Vincent McMahon